TAFE NSW NARRANDERA CONNECTED LEARNING CENTRE OPENING

Narrandera Shire Council's Mayor Neville Kschenka recently attended the opening of the new state of the art Tafe NSW Narrandera Connected Learning Centre (CLC) on Friday 31 August.

The new multi-million dollar facility was officially opened by Tafe NSW Managing Director, John Black, together with NSW Minister for Tourism and Major Events and Assistant Minister for Skills, Adam Marshall, and Member for Cootamundra, Steph Cooke.

The facility boasts revolutionary technologies for digital learning, enabling students from throughout the region to digitally connect into classrooms and interact with students and teachers. This brilliant concept is breaking the access barrier previously in place for students wanting study subjects not necessary available to them locally and it is building career opportunities not just for residents but anyone connecting into the Narrandera Tafe CLC.

Mayor Cr Neville Kschenka said, "This is a welcome addition to our Shire's education services. Not only will high school students have the option to study locally after completing school, but residents will have the opportunity to further develop and upskill in their careers."

With an extensive coverage of courses available, the listing has now doubled from previous offerings. The CLC offers practical training, flexible learning and is now open to the public.
